

At Moat Farm Junior School, we were extremely proud and honored to join in with hundreds of other schools across the UK to take part in Number Day and to raise money for the NSPCC.

The children were able to find out what the NSPCC does and how they help children. Keeping children safe is why they're here and what drives their work.

Each year group came dressed in their own clothes but with a twist. Children came to school wearing numbers! In addition to this, each class took part in various mathematical activities centres around the NSPCC.
